

Sean Nicholson

Director and Quality of Education Committee Member

Sean has worked as a British Sign Language Interpreter for 30 years. He is founder, former CEO and now Non- Executive director of Sign Solutions the interpreting and training company which also created the successful video interpreting brand Interpreters Live!

He has company-gained experience working within the disability and equality arena with knowledge, empathy and understanding of equality and diversity issues. He is a visiting Industrial Fellow for Aston University and a Goldman Sachs alumni for the 10000 small business programme.

As a parent of 5 children, he acts as a parent governor and has additional responsibility for Special Educational Needs and Disability. Sitting on the Quality of Education committee he is passionate about the school gaining recognition for academic achievements and the broad range of physical, community and social activities that are so important in creating a broad educational experience.

In his free time he acts as a Listening Volunteer for The Samaritans.
